

Without innovations there is no growth.

- Your in-house innovation is still in project stage? Already exist as constructive documentation or even as prototype? Or has it recently left your house as first run and you want to launch the next development and look for a production partner?

ALS Automated Lab Solutions with its superior know-how is at your side.

What distinguishes ALS Automated Lab Solutions from other suppliers?

Besides our long history as successful international OEM-partner with a highly motivated and skilled team of specialists, ALS Automated Lab Solutions is a direct supplier in the growing sector of regenerative medicine and has succeeded in creating its own customer presence - from the user to applicative advice, hard- and software development and finally in-house system production - that can otherwise be only said from big companies.

Therefore, we are aware of what persuades customers to buy a system at first-hand. This experience can be found in each and every OEM-transaction carried out by ALS Automated Lab Solutions. That distinguishes us from other suppliers.